Dear Families and Friends of our Mullen Home Residents,

We are happy to report we have completed another round of COVID-19 testing as required related to the recent positive employee cases and at this time we have no new positive cases to report. With the completion of a full round of all negative results, this now opens up indoor visitation for unvaccinated residents. We continue to take guidance from the State and local county health departments regarding our next steps.

We are all in positive spirit here at the home and continue to be encouraged.

While everyone is preparing for the upcoming holidays, we would like for everyone to remain thankful and blessed for every day God's allows us. Also, keep in mind the vaccine is still available and being offered in the community.

Attached is a link to a video documentary entitled "Closed Doors, Open Hearts: Nursing Homes and COVID-19," which was released by the American Health Care Association. It signifies the spirit of being thankful of how far we have come since the start of the pandemic. This documentary aligns with the spirit of Saint Jeanne Jugan as the staff who were the frontline workers gave so much during these uncertain times. With the spirit of Thanksgiving, we here at the Mullen Home would like to thank all of our healthcare workers who were on the frontline and gave so much during this time. Please take a moment to view the documentary.
